About the Farm

Founded in 2015, the Gayo Lauser Antara Cooperative consists of about 466 farmers, each cultivating on approximately 1-5 hectares of land each. Each farmer produces around 33 containers of coffee per year, and everyone in the cooperative is Fair Trade certified and organic. Most of the farms are small in scale and family-run, and many of the farming families moved to Jagong Jeget and Berawang highlands in Aceh in 1982 during a movement designed to economically support rural families. Giling Basah is the name for Indonesia's wet hulling process, and it is the predominant processing method completed there due to the high levels of rainfall. We are happy to bring wet-hulled coffee to the specialty coffee world!
